

What Our Members say about us

Our purpose

“EAA brings together the most strategic investors in East Africa”.

“The EAA provides critical insights that have proven accurate as we have grown in the Region.”

“The membership is diverse which provides for a very ideal and balanced opinion sharing platform.”

“If you want to know what is going on in the region in terms of politics, commerce, finance and trade from people who live and work here, then join the EAA.”

“Having been members of the EAA for many years, we have valued the insights provided by the Association and the opportunities to mingle with like-minded CEOs in other industries across the region.”

Networking

“The association offers a unique opportunity to interact with a diverse membership and get a broad view of economic and political developments and how they are likely to impact business activity.”

“From my side the networking with other industry players in East Africa is very useful and informative and has helped us make some better business decisions”

“I have found the EAA to be a very useful platform for sharing information on the political risks, economic realities and other challenges facing legitimate businesses in Eastern Africa.” Rob Andrew - Sentinel Associates.

Information

“Providing valuable perspectives on the social, economic and political landscape of the region.”

“EAA does impressive research on the state of economies in the region, with critical information that informs members of real stuff and hence shaping strategic decisions.”

“EAA has always been one of my go to sources for business insights and political summaries for the region. The meetings, the guests and newsletters are an invaluable source of knowledge.” Deven Jadeja Bahari Forwarders Limited

Representation

“The EAA has proved to be a critical catalyst for our organization to network and meet influential business, diplomatic and political leaders.”

“We have been members for just over 6 years and the forum for information and networking that has been provided by the EAA is simply excellent. The membership is diverse which provides for a very ideal and balanced opinion sharing platform.”
Kashif Chaudhry.

Support

“EAA is a very active association of professionals dedicated to Eastern Africa, it has a dedicated team who are able to distil a large quantity of information into something easily digestible, arranges worthwhile trade missions, provides relevant feedback and provides a great networking opportunity.”

“The EAA has always been my first contact when arriving on business and research trips to East Africa. I have always received excellent in-person briefings and business advice that has guided my business development strategy.”